

Flora Danica The world's wildest porcelain collection

Flora Danica has the status of the absolute finest and most precious porcelain tableware in the world. Now, for the second time, it is appearing on stamps. The four motifs are all taken straight from the beautiful exhibition at Koldinghus, the Royal Collection. Bertil Skov Jørgensen designed the four stamps and photographer Iben Kaufmann took the pictures.

Stamps of the year in one post

A visual reference work

A total of 31 stamps, divided into three minisheets and four strips. The front page shows the motif from the issue "Everyday Cycling" and highlights Denmark as one of the biggest cycling nations. On the inside cover you will find facts about the issues in Danish and English.

The full story

In Danish Stamps – and the stories behind them, you can read about the background to this year's six different issue themes. All this year's stamps and minisheets are included.

The issue "Together for peace" graces the cover of the book. Candles in the window for peace and freedom have been tradition in Denmark since Liberation Day on May 4, 1945. This year's first-day covers are presented and a short introduction to the year's artists and contributors is provided. Texts are in Danish and English.

Flora Danica on first-day covers

Today, a small part of the original Flora Danica collection is stored at Amalienborg Palace, Fredensborg Palace and Christiansborg Palace. The vast majority of pieces have been brought together at Koldinghus to provide the public with the best experience of what is somewhat ambiguously also known as the World's Wildest Porcelain Collection.
